AuthorWilliam @CathrynLouis We'll find a way to rope you out of the lurker shadows! :) #litchat -1:10 PM Aug 6th, 2010
JeffStepakoff WYears was a lot of fun to write. #litchat -1:10 PM Aug 6th, 2010
JeffStepakoff Sitting in story rooms under pressure of production gives you a set of tools. #litchat -1:10 PM Aug 6th, 2010
ErikaRobuck You had me at The Wonder Years. One of my all time favorite shows. Hi all! waves (lurks) #litchat -1:10 PM Aug 6th, 2010
CarolyBurnsBass @JeffStepakoff What challenges did you encounter writing a novel, as opposed to screenplays? #litchat -1:10 PM Aug 6th, 2010 AuthorWilliam @suzannepatton Oh no! Will miss your input. Will get counseling. May never get over it tho. ;-) (have a great weekend!) #litchat -1:11 PM Aug 6th, 2010 homeconfessions Do you see the shape of your story before you begin writing? #litchat -1:11 PM Aug 6th, 2010

NathanCarriker From your perspective and experience, how "bleak" is the publishing picture for new, uncredentialed writers? #litchat -1:11 PM Aug 6th, 2010 lacarrington1 What's easier to write...screenplays or novels? #litchat -1:11 PM Aug 6th, 2010
AuthorWilliam @ErikaRobuck waves to the lurker shadows #litchat -1:12 PM Aug 6th, 2010
JeffStepakoff With fiction you have only prose to tell a story. You are the actors, the director, the designer... #litchat -1:12 PM Aug 6th, 2010
ErikaRobuck @AuthorWilliam :) #litchat -1:12 PM Aug 6th, 2010
JeffStepakoff In some ways, of course, that's more challenging... but #litchat -1:12 PM Aug 6th, 2010 lacarrington1 Hey talented authors tweeting in the shadows...#litchat is happening right now! Come on in! -1:12 PM Aug 6th, 2010 homeconfessions In other words, you feel in total control with fiction? or no? #litchat -1:13 PM Aug 6th, 2010 JeffStepakoff What's esp great about fiction is the opp to get it right. Get it just the way you want it. #litchat -1:13 PM Aug 6th, 2010
Lindzbinz_H is there a makeup #fantasytalk happening today? if so i'm game. #scifichat #litchat -1:13 PM Aug 6th, 2010
CathrynLouis RT @JeffStepakoff: "What's esp great about fiction is the opp to get it right. Get it just the way you want it. #litchat" -1:13 PM Aug 6th, 2010 JeffStepakoff So I think you use a lot of the same muscles. Wouldn't say one is easier than another. #litchat -1:13 PM Aug 6th, 2010 lacarrington1 RT @JeffStepakoff: "What's esp great about fiction is the opp to get it right. Get it just the way you want it. #litchat -1:14 PM Aug 6th, 2010
WriteWilette The novel seemed shorter than average... did you have a hard time getting it published? #litchat -1:14 PM Aug 6th, 2010
AustinMullen @Lindzbinz_H Hadn't planned on it but we certainly can #fantasytalk #scifichat #litchat -1:14 PM Aug 6th, 2010
JeffStepakoff Hi to you all that have just come in! #litchat -1:14 PM Aug 6th, 2010

CarolyBurnsBass ★ RT @JeffStepakoff: Whats esp great about fiction is the opp to get it right. Get it just the way you want it. #litchat -1:15 PM Aug 6th, 2010
JeffStepakoff It was a bit shorter than usual, but that wasn't an obstacle. #litchat -1:15 PM Aug 6th, 2010
asiajane @JeffStepakoff having control over all of those aspects must give U more freedom, though. #litchat -1:15 PM Aug 6th, 2010
AuthorWilliam RT @JeffStepakoff fiction u have only prose to tell a story. You are the actors, the director, the designer. #litchat <<Love this about fic -1:15 PM Aug 6th, 2010
NathanCarriker RT @WriteWilette: The novel seemed shorter than average... could we get a rough word count? 60K? #litchat -1:15 PM Aug 6th, 2010 AuthorWilliam RT @JeffStepakoff What's esp great about fiction is the opp to get it right. Get it just the way you want it. #litchat <<AMEN & AMEN :) -1:16 PM Aug 6th, 2010
JeffStepakoff These are all such good questions! #litchat -1:16 PM Aug 6th, 2010
CathrynLouis @JeffStepakoff How would you compare dialogue in a script vs a novel? PS - loved WY #litchat -1:16 PM Aug 6th, 2010
NathanCarriker Hey kids, @jeffstepakoff is in the #litchat room. -1:16 PM Aug 6th, 2010

CarolyBurnsBass @JeffStepakoff The little town of Toccoa, Georgia is a character within the novel. Was this intended or developed with the story? #litchat -1:17 PM Aug 6th, 2010
WriteWilette @NathanCarriker I'm not sure. @JeffStepakoff? #litchat -1:17 PM Aug 6th, 2010
JeffStepakoff I think the dialogue is basically the same in a novel and a screenplay, what's diff is... #litchat -1:17 PM Aug 6th, 2010
AustinMullen Okay, who wants a makeup #fantasytalk this afternoon? #scifichat #litchat #flitchat -1:17 PM Aug 6th, 2010
JeffStepakoff The use of prose in a novel to express how the dialogue should be delivered. #litchat -1:17 PM Aug 6th, 2010
AuthorWilliam Speaking from the POV of a theatre/film director, I love what you have to say about fiction's emboldening of our individual voice. #litchat -1:17 PM Aug 6th, 2010
ErikaRobuck Poe was all for short fiction. He advocated reading a story in one sitting to get the full meaning. #litchat -1:18 PM Aug 6th, 2010
JeffStepakoff And again, in a novel, you are free -- in fact it's your job, I think -- to use prose to explain how the dialogue is to be heard. #litchat -1:18 PM Aug 6th, 2010 homeconfessions @JeffStepakoff say more about "use of prose to express how dial should be delivered..." #litchat -1:18 PM Aug 6th, 2010

LitChat @AustinMullen I hate to be a baddie, but we have a topic chat going with a guest author. Would you hold your request until after #litchat -1:19 PM Aug 6th, 2010 AuthorWilliam @ErikaRobuck Interesting! That Poe always up to something. #litchat -1:19 PM Aug 6th, 2010 lacarrington1 What's your take on the "show vs. tell" issue? #litchat -1:19 PM Aug 6th, 2010
JeffStepakoff Again, use of prose to explain the delivery of dialogue is writer as actor, writer as director. #litchat -1:20 PM Aug 6th, 2010 deegospel RT @JeffStepakoff: With fiction you have only prose to tell a story. You are the actors, the director, the designer... #litchat -1:20 PM Aug 6th, 2010
CathrynLouis @JeffStepakoff Oh! I see. Thank you. #litchat -1:20 PM Aug 6th, 2010
NathanCarriker @LitChat scanned the chat and can't find the topic, but the guest is great! Can you clarify topic really quick? #litchat -1:20 PM Aug 6th, 2010 JeffStepakoff Big advocate of Show vs. Tell. #litchat -1:20 PM Aug 6th, 2010 deegospel RT @JeffStepakoff: What's esp great about fiction is the opp to get it right. Get it just the way you want it. #litchat #fb -1:20 PM Aug 6th, 2010
JeffStepakoff Dramatize, whenever possible! #litchat -1:20 PM Aug 6th, 2010
AuthorWilliam RT @JeffStepakoff: Again, use of prose to explain the delivery of dialogue is writer as actor, writer as director. #litchat -1:21 PM Aug 6th, 2010 LitChat @NathanCarriker Topic is men who pen love stories. FIREWORKS OVER TOCCOA is a love story set in WWII-era Georgia. #litchat -1:21 PM Aug 6th, 2010 lacarrington1 Excellent! RT @JeffStepakoff Big advocate of Show vs. Tell #litchat -1:21 PM Aug 6th, 2010 ficwriter @JeffStepakoff Mary Karr recently said that much fiction today lacks warmth and sense of connection. Not the case w/ your writing. #litchat -1:22 PM Aug 6th, 2010

CathrynLouis via @JeffStepakoff: "& again, in novel, u're free -in fact it's ur job, I think-2 use prose 2 explain how dialogue is 2 be heard. #litchat" -1:22 PM Aug 6th, 2010

deegospel RT @JeffStepakoff: ... -- in fact it's your job, I think -- to use prose to explain how the dialogue is to be heard. #litchat -1:22 PM Aug 6th, 2010

CarolyBurnsBass @JeffStepakoff Do you employ screenwriting techniques (3-acts, for instance) into your novel writing? #litchat -1:22 PM Aug 6th, 2010

WriteWilette But the trend in fiction nowadays is restrained writing. Do you agree with this? (I don't, mostly) #litchat -1:22 PM Aug 6th, 2010

JeffStepakoff I think there's a place for telling, again, esp with emotion. But dramatization should, I think, be the first impulse. #litchat -1:23 PM Aug 6th, 2010

asiajane @JeffStepakoff Must be hard to "show" in a new way... how do you avoid cliches in language? (Aside from the obvious ones!)#litchat -1:23 PM Aug 6th, 2010

JeffStepakoff I know what you mean about restrained writing... #litchat -1:23 PM Aug 6th, 2010 homeconfessions @WriteWilette I think this trend for restrained is an old one. There's also the opposite, I think. #litchat -1:23 PM Aug 6th, 2010

Jeff__Emmerson @JeffStepakoff Interesting.....Drama is useless without believability. #litchat -1:23 PM Aug 6th, 2010

AuthorWilliam @WriteWilette What do you mean by "restrained writing" I think I get a feel but elaborate. Love the question. Interested in answer #litchat -1:24 PM Aug 6th, 2010

JeffStepakoff I believe in full storytelling. Subtext, character, action, all well told. #litchat -1:24 PM Aug 6th, 2010

editorStet If people are on #litchat today, they should be. @JeffStepakoff has some great advice and insights I've been writing down so I remember! #FF -1:24 PM Aug 6th, 2010 ficwriter RT @JeffStepakoff: I believe in full storytelling. Subtext, character, action, all well told. #litchat -1:24 PM Aug 6th, 2010

Jeff__Emmerson I eat #TraditionalPublishing firms and #LiteraryAgents for breakfast....Wow. #INDIEPUBLISHING = FUTURE #litchat -1:24 PM Aug 6th, 2010

NathanCarriker @LitChat Fantastic topic. My mantra is "Reality has a heart, romance has a brain." Love when guys/gals write the beautiful & real! #litchat -1:25 PM Aug 6th, 2010

deegospel @JeffStepakoff why did you pick Toccoa at WWII (i'm a georgia resident & ga history buff?) #litchat -1:25 PM Aug 6th, 2010

WriteWilette @homeconfessions: the books I'm discovering lately are all about restraint and lack of character details #litchat -1:25 PM Aug 6th, 2010

Jeff__Emmerson @JeffStepakoff Hi right back, Jeff. #litchat -1:25 PM Aug 6th, 2010

JeffStepakoff I think the culture of film has led to or perhaps enabled a "restraint" of storytelling on the page. #litchat -1:26 PM Aug 6th, 2010

WriteWilette @AuthorWilliam Restrained as in bare bones description, allowing the reader decipher the scene on their own. Case in point, Wake. #litchat -1:26 PM Aug 6th, 2010

Sophronia Mine too! RT @ErikaRobuck: You had me at The Wonder Years. One of my all time favorite shows. Hi all! waves (lurks) #litchat -1:26 PM Aug 6th, 2010

Jeff__Emmerson @JeffStepakoff How so, Jeff? #litchat -1:26 PM Aug 6th, 2010
homeconfessions @WriteWilette want to name some titles? I love writing that is "sparse" but that doesn't mean they lack drama and emotion. #litchat -1:26 PM Aug 6th, 2010
JeffStepakoff Again, I think you lay out your structure, but then you use the strengths of prose to tell the story fully. #litchat -1:27 PM Aug 6th, 2010
MsALWalker Thanks WriteWilette for explaining restraint #litchat -1:27 PM Aug 6th, 2010 lacarrington1 Hi there! RT @degarmo2911 Hi, I'm Jessica Degarmo, and I'll be publishing my first book with Night Publishing in October. #litchat. -1:27 PM Aug 6th, 2010
WriteWilette @homeconfessions The Wake, Fade, Gone trilogy for one. Didn't say it was bad necessarily, just that I don't like to write that way. #litchat -1:28 PM Aug 6th, 2010
JeffStepakoff I like The Road, McCarthy's book. I think he's able to be not sparse, but precise. #litchat -1:28 PM Aug 6th, 2010
Jeff__Emmerson @JeffStepakoff Did you #IndiePublish, Jeff? #litchat -1:28 PM Aug 6th, 2010 homeconfessions @WriteWilette Cool. Just wondered. #litchat -1:28 PM Aug 6th, 2010
MsALWalker Precision takes skill. #litchat -1:28 PM Aug 6th, 2010
JeffStepakoff Hi Jeff! My publisher is St. Martin's Press. #litchat -1:29 PM Aug 6th, 2010 asiajane @homeconfessions re: restraint: Thinking of Best Amer. Short Stories collections of the 90s & the common pared-down language. #litchat -1:29 PM Aug 6th, 2010 homeconfessions My editor at the Boston Globe had a saying: "If I had more time, I'd write shorter." It's often true, but not always. #litchat -1:29 PM Aug 6th, 2010 AuthorWilliam @WriteWilette Understood. Thanks for clarifying. I imagine the thinking is that "over-description" can gridlock the read... #litchat -1:29 PM Aug 6th, 2010
Jeff__Emmerson @JeffStepakoff Self or Traditional? #litchat -1:29 PM Aug 6th, 2010
AmyBonaccorso RT @ErikaRobuck: Poe was all for short fiction. He advocated reading a story in one sitting to get the full meaning. #litchat -1:30 PM Aug 6th, 2010
WriteWilette @AuthorWilliam Agreed with that, but sometimes it'd be nice to know the protagonist's name or even the color of their hair. #litchat -1:30 PM Aug 6th, 2010 homeconfessions @asiajane Ray Carver? Ann Beatty and those types? Also loved Cold Mountain, which I wouldn't describe as restrained. #litchat -1:30 PM Aug 6th, 2010
JeffStepakoff Traditional. SMP will also be releasing FIREWORKS OVER TOCCOA in Trade Paperback in March and... #litchat -1:31 PM Aug 6th, 2010
Jeff__Emmerson @JeffStepakoff Hopefully not #Traditional, Jeff....#IndiePublishing is the way of the future. #litchat -1:31 PM Aug 6th, 2010 homeconfessions @WriteWilette Wow. That is restraint! #litchat -1:31 PM Aug 6th, 2010
WriteWilette Jeff: Have you had any negative comments from military families, considering that cheating on a deployed spouse is a big issue? #litchat -1:31 PM Aug 6th, 2010
JeffStepakoff My next novel which is due out in May. #litchat -1:31 PM Aug 6th, 2010
CarolyBurnsBass @JeffStepakoff How long did it take you to write FIREWORKS? #litchat -1:31 PM Aug 6th, 2010
AuthorWilliam @JeffStepakoff Don't think anyone's asked yet but I saw traces of plotter there in your comments. Are you a "plotter" or "panster"? #litchat -1:31 PM Aug 6th, 2010 lacarrington1 RT @Jeff__Emmerson: @JeffStepakoff Hopefully not #Traditional, Jeff....#IndiePublishing is the way of the future. #litchat -1:31 PM Aug 6th, 2010
ficwriter @JeffStepakoff Do you have to write a proposal for every novel? #litchat -1:32 PM Aug 6th, 2010

JeffStepakoff About a year it took to write. Longer to develop. #litchat -1:32 PM Aug 6th, 2010
JeffStepakoff I very much believe in working from outline... #litchat -1:32 PM Aug 6th, 2010
AuthorWilliam @WriteWilette An improv teacher once said to me "you can 'break' the rules so long as you know them very, very well." #litchat -1:32 PM Aug 6th, 2010
JeffStepakoff Again, storyroom training! #litchat -1:32 PM Aug 6th, 2010 CarolyBurnsBass What do you mean by "develop"? RT @JeffStepakoff: About a year it took to write. Longer to develop. #litchat -1:32 PM Aug 6th, 2010 asiajane @homeconfessions yes, those authors & some others I can't remember! Cold Mt was great & ur right, did not tend towards that trend #litchat -1:33 PM Aug 6th, 2010
Jeff__Emmerson @JeffStepakoff Aargh, I see. ;) I detest #TraditionalPublishing, and #IndiePublishing will surpass it in time. Power to the author! #litchat -1:33 PM Aug 6th, 2010 CarolyBurnsBass Aha... @AuthorWilliam... another plotter for you. RT @JeffStepakoff: I very much believe in working from outline... #litchat -1:33 PM Aug 6th, 2010
WriteWilette @AuthorWilliam So very true! #litchat -1:33 PM Aug 6th, 2010 danish_novelist @homeconfessions I love novels that aren't too wordy. On Chesil Beach by McEwan is a masterly example of efficient beautiful prose #litchat -1:33 PM Aug 6th, 2010
AuthorWilliam @WriteWilette So I think once you know the reasons for a trend you can empower yourself even more to follow your instinct. #litchat -1:33 PM Aug 6th, 2010
JeffStepakoff My exp was to write the novel and then set that up. #litchat -1:34 PM Aug 6th, 2010 joswartz Can't help myself - must ask: getting characters individual voices - any tips? #litchat -1:34 PM Aug 6th, 2010
CarolyBurnsBass This is what you must mean by develop: Plotting is like storyroom. RT @JeffStepakoff: Again, storyroom training! #litchat -1:34 PM Aug 6th, 2010
Jeff__Emmerson RT @lacarrington1: RT @Jeff__Emmerson: @JeffStepakoff Hopefully not #Traditional, Jeff...#IndiePublishing is the way of the future. #litchat -1:34 PM Aug 6th, 2010 homeconfessions Thanks, Jeff and #litchat. Have to leave early today. Great thoughts. Congrats to Jeff on this and forthcoming work! #litchat -1:34 PM Aug 6th, 2010
JeffStepakoff Yes, danish novelist, I think it's our job to be precise with language. #litchat -1:34 PM Aug 6th, 2010
JeffStepakoff Nice to mt you home conf! #litchat -1:35 PM Aug 6th, 2010 danish_novelist @JeffStepakoff I believe in outlines but they don't believe in me, so I make up by rewriting all the time #litchat -1:35 PM Aug 6th, 2010
WriteWilette @AuthorWilliam My instincts were always to write a little more, I guess. #litchat -1:35 PM Aug 6th, 2010 AuthorWilliam RT @JeffStepakoff I very much believe in working from outline... #litchat <<Hooray! Another plotter! :-) #litchat -1:35 PM Aug 6th, 2010

LitChat @homeconfessions Thanks again for your terrific comments and questions. #litchat -1:36 PM Aug 6th, 2010 NathanCarriker Last novel I read was @amygreenebr's BLOODROOT. Any1 care to school me on whether that was "sparse" or "rich"? Not a LitProf. ;-) #litchat -1:36 PM Aug 6th, 2010

JeffStepakoff I think an outline should be like a map. #litchat -1:37 PM Aug 6th, 2010

NathanCarriker @LitChat Sorry, didn't mean to be irrelevant, just trying to understand discussion. #litchat -1:39 PM Aug 6th, 2010 CarolyBurnsBass @JeffStepakoff I understand you were a journalism major (UNC). Do any of those skills inform your fiction? #litchat -1:39 PM Aug 6th, 2010 asiajane @JeffStepakoff Read lots of McCullers and other Southern writers when living in MS. Do you/did you read them for inspiration? #litchat -1:39 PM Aug 6th, 2010
novhill I'm not an outliner, but I love the notion of outline as map. #litchat -1:39 PM Aug 6th, 2010 AuthorWilliam @WriteWilette For me it depends on the narrative approach. If you're writing in the 1st person. That character heavily impacts this #litchat -1:39 PM Aug 6th, 2010
deegospel @JeffStepakoff my 1st novel releases next July, now I'm writing the 2nd & now my editor wants outline for 3rd. how do you manage? #litchat -1:39 PM Aug 6th, 2010
WriteWilette Were you involved in the cover design process at all? Because I have to admit, it's partly why I picked it up. #litchat -1:40 PM Aug 6th, 2010 LitChat @NathanCarriker No apologies necessary. Just trying to keep the discussion directed to our guest. Thanks for understanding. #litchat -1:40 PM Aug 6th, 2010
