TonyNoland @LaurenBaratzL Q: Authors who publish in multiple genres - are they unusual because it's a rare talent or is it discouraged? #litchat -4:03 PM Jan 21st, 2011

Justine_Davies_@LaurenBaratzL And waving to you from Australia! #litchat -4:04 PM Jan 21st, 2011
LaurenBaratzL @TonyNoland There's so much focus on "branding" these days. Multi is not necessarily encouraged. #litchat -4:04 PM Jan 21st, 2011

LaurenBaratzL @TonyNoland I'm probably the wrong one to say but I think it's rare to write successfully in many voices. #litchat -4:06 PM Jan 21st, 2011

LaurenBaratzL @maggiedana Do you ever want to write anything drastically different from what you do write? #litchat -4:07 PM Jan 21st, 2011 sticky_t @LaurenBaratzL I tend to write on the side of romance, but don't limit myself to that genre. Am writing a YA novel right now. #litchat -4:08 PM Jan 21st, 2011 maggiedana RT @maggiedana Do you ever want to write anything drastically different from what you do write? // Litfic a la M. Atwood? #litchat -4:08 PM Jan 21st, 2011

Justine_Davies_@maggiedana @LaurenBaratzL Branding is great - it helps you to effectively establish a strong niche, then u can branch out ... #litchat -4:08 PM Jan 21st, 2011 agnieszkasshoes Hi, Dan here writery thing #litchat -4:08 PM Jan 21st, 2011

agnieszkasshoes RT @CarolyBurnsBass: Heading now to #litchat where author diva @LaurenBaratzL is guest hosting. Does everyone see her crown? -4:09 PM Jan 21st, 2011 TonyNoland @LaurenBaratzL I've gotten good responses for things grim & dark, but also for things wacky & funny. Hard to "brand" that. #litchat -4:09 PM Jan 21st, 2011
LaurenBaratzL @maggiedana Oh, is that all? #litchat -4:09 PM Jan 21st, 2011

maggiedana RT @LaurenBaratzL: @maggiedana Oh, is that all? // Not much to ask, huh? #litchat -4:09 PM Jan 21st, 2011

LaurenBaratzL @Justine_Davies_ Well, but sometimes branding can confine you to a box. OK if it's the box you want... #litchat -4:09 PM Jan 21st, 2011

LaurenBaratzL @TonyNoland If it makes sense at all, the only brand is my name. #litchat -4:10 PM Jan 21st, 2011

Justine_Davies_ @LaurenBaratzL True - I guess I like my box :) #litchat -4:10 PM Jan 21st, 2011

maggiedana @LaurenBaratzL When switching from writing one genre to another, do you ever get momentarily confused? Wrong word/structure, etc? #litchat -4:11 PM Jan 21st, 2011

LaurenBaratzL Life is short; getting published or staying published, uncertain. Might as well write what excites you. #litchat -4:11 PM Jan 21st, 2011 sticky_t @LaurenBaratzL Romance. :) Though if it gets much more intense/dark than it is, might consider switching to gen fiction. #litchat -4:11 PM Jan 21st, 2011

LaurenBaratzL @Justine_Davies_ Nothing wrong with that! #litchat -4:11 PM Jan 21st, 2011 sticky_t Love that! RT @LaurenBaratzL: @TonyNoland If it makes sense at all, the only brand is my name. #litchat -4:11 PM Jan 21st, 2011

TonyNoland RT @LaurenBaratzL: @TonyNoland If it makes sense at all, the only brand is my name. #litchat / My name is only one that would fit me, too. -4:12 PM Jan 21st, 2011 maggiedana @LaurenBaratzL Yes, life is short. Eat dessert first. #litchat -4:12 PM Jan 21st, 2011

LaurenBaratzL @maggiedana Short answer: No. Usually there's such an obvious difference. #litchat -4:12 PM Jan 21st, 2011 krisriggle Could someone please clue me in on the topic? And hello. #litchat -4:12 PM Jan 21st, 2011

ellenfbrown Did your agent have any concerns about you writing in different genres? #litchat -4:12 PM Jan 21st, 2011

CarolyBurnsBass Have any of your editors/publishers requested you use a pen name for other genres? If so, why and how have you stood ground? #litchat -4:12 PM Jan 21st, 2011

LaurenBaratzL Btw, folks serious about a career in writing should join Backspace. Wish it had existed when I was starting out. #litchat -4:13 PM Jan 21st, 2011

maggiedana @krisriggle Writing in multiple genres ... and hello! #litchat -4:13 PM Jan 21st, 2011

LitChat @krisriggle We're visiting with @LaurenBaratzL on topic of writing in multiple genres and getting away with it. #litchat -4:13 PM Jan 21st, 2011

LaurenBaratzL @krisriggle Writing in several genres. I'm hosting, answering questions. #litchat -4:13 PM Jan 21st, 2011 candlemarkgleam RT @LaurenBaratzL: Life is short; getting published or staying published, uncertain. Might as well write what excites you. #litchat -4:13 PM Jan 21st, 2011

LaurenBaratzL @ellenfbrown My current agent is my 6th and she's the first to actually sell anything; sold 1st five myself. #litchat -4:14 PM Jan 21st, 2011

TonyNoland I get into a mood when writing. Hard to switch from sci-fi noir to YA to litfic without at break to clear my head. #litchat -4:14 PM Jan 21st, 2011

LaurenBaratzL @ellenfbrown Since she's sold - 18, I think? - for me - for every age group/various genres, she's not concerned. #litchat -4:14 PM Jan 21st, 2011

21stCscribe I find the material demands to be written in its way, that determines the genre #litchat -4:15 PM Jan 21st, 2011 krisriggle Oh, hi @LaurenBaratzL of course it's Friday and hosting day! I'm multi-tasking w/parenting so forgive my scattered mood #litchat -4:15 PM Jan 21st, 2011 sticky_t @TonyNoland I'm like that too. Once I get into a groove it's hard to make a switch like that. #litchat -4:15 PM Jan 21st, 2011 LaurenBaratzL @CarolyBurnsBass Ther only time I was asked to change my name was my debut. They said name was unwieldy. I said no. #litchat -4:15 PM Jan 21st, 2011
TonyNoland RT @LitChat: @krisriggle @LaurenBaratzL on topic of writing in multiple genres ---> and getting away with it<---. #litchat (emphasis mine) -4:15 PM Jan 21st, 2011 ellenfbrown She sounds great. I've heard of other authors having trouble with their agents trying to change course. #litchat -4:16 PM Jan 21st, 2011
LaurenBaratzL @TonyNoland The thing is, so long as you know you need that space and you take it, you're cool. #litchat -4:16 PM Jan 21st, 2011 candlemarkgleam RT @TonyNoland: I get into a mood when writing. Hard to switch from sci-fi noir to YA to litfic without at break to clear my head. #litchat -4:16 PM Jan 21st, 2011 21stCscribe just completed my 1st ever draft of a thriller/supernatural. Always write litfic before and in future, but this demanded 2Bwritten #litchat -4:16 PM Jan 21st, 2011 dallasgeffen @21stCscribe so basically they are talking about marketing again over at #litchat. -4:16 PM Jan 21st, 2011 krisriggle @LaurenBaratzL One person's "unwieldy" name is another's "memorable." Here's to memorable names! #litchat -4:17 PM Jan 21st, 2011 LaurenBaratzL @ellenfbrown The thing authors need to remember: You do not work for your agent. #litchat -4:17 PM Jan 21st, 2011 maggiedana @LaurenBaratzL You're at a cocktail party and someone asks "What do you do?" How do you answer? #litchat -4:17 PM Jan 21st, 2011
DavidRozansky The biggest issue I have with writers changing genres is when they try to hit two (or more) genres with one novel. Sinks fast. #litchat -4:17 PM Jan 21st, 2011
21stCscribe @dallasgeffen like it or not, it forms part of the authorial equation #litchat -4:17 PM Jan 21st, 2011
painteds_words Does your process of character development change at all from genre to genre? #litchat -4:17 PM Jan 21st, 2011
LaurenBaratzL @21stCscribe That is exactly so. 1st YA that I wrote, I thought I was writing another adult fic until 100pp in. #litchat -4:17 PM Jan 21st, 2011
21stCscribe @LaurenBaratzL ha! How did you feel at the point of epiphany? #litchat -4:18 PM Jan 21st, 2011
LaurenBaratzL @maggiedana Answer at a cocktail party: "I'm a writer." #litchat -4:18 PM Jan 21st, 2011 sticky_t Ah, interesting thought. RT @painteds_words: Does your process of character development change at all from genre to genre? #litchat -4:18 PM Jan 21st, 2011 TonyNoland @LaurenBaratzL And what was the consequence of not adopting a pen name? Anything? #litchat -4:18 PM Jan 21st, 2011
dallasgeffen @21stCscribe doesn't offend me; I am marketing right now, so to speak, by debasing #litchat it's called positioning. -4:19 PM Jan 21st, 2011
LaurenBaratzL @painteds_words No, not really. Most books for me begin with concept/MC/title. The character is defined by the concept. #litchat -4:19 PM Jan 21st, 2011

CarolyBurnsBass You often write more than one book at a time. Do you have a process for tracking character, plot, setting and other details? #litchat -4:19 PM Jan 21st, 2011

TonyNoland RT @DavidRozansky: The biggest issue - two (or more) genres with one novel. Sinks fast. #litchat / Agree. -4:19 PM Jan 21st, 2011

21stCscribe @dallasgeffen I woul;dn't know about that. I'm not down with the marketing jargon #litchat -4:19 PM Jan 21st, 2011

LaurenBaratzL @21stCscribe It actually felt good! "Ooh, a new field to write in!" #litchat -4:20 PM Jan 21st, 2011

booktrunk #litchat regarding cross genre, China Mieville does a rather decent stab of multiple genre books. -4:20 PM Jan 21st, 2011 sticky_t This is what I want to know, too. RT @TonyNoland: @LaurenBaratzL And what was the consequence of not adopting a pen name? Anything? #litchat -4:20 PM Jan 21st, 2011

21stCscribe @booktrunk It was Mieville who provoked me to write my first ever genre book... #litchat -4:20 PM Jan 21st, 2011

LaurenBaratzL @TonyNoland Consequence of not using more than one name: Some people get confused. I can't help that. #litchat -4:20 PM Jan 21st, 2011

LaurenBaratzL @sticky_t @TonyNoland Or did you mean consequence with that publisher? #litchat -4:21 PM Jan 21st, 2011

21stCscribe @LaurenBaratzL wow, I'm not sure I would have been so celebratory about it #litchat -4:21 PM Jan 21st, 2011

amkade @LaurenBaratzL This might seem like an outlandish question, but why are you against a pen name, esp if it were variant on your own? #litchat -4:21 PM Jan 21st, 2011

LaurenBaratzL @21stCscribe Hey, YA is hot. Did I know some would look down their noses? Sure. Did I care? No. #litchat -4:22 PM Jan 21st, 2011

amkade @LaurenBaratzL Do you think that name recognition from one genre helps the other, or confuses it more? #litchat -4:22 PM Jan 21st, 2011

dallasgeffen @21stCscribe From The Peoples Republic of Information: http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Positioning_\(marketing\)) #litchat -4:22 PM Jan 21st, 2011

TonyNoland @LaurenBaratzL with that publisher, actually. A new author without a track record, taking a stand... how did that go? #litchat -4:23 PM Jan 21st, 2011

21stCscribe @LaurenBaratzL no I meant celebrating that part way through writing the book was something completely different #litchat -4:23 PM Jan 21st, 2011

LaurenBaratzL @amkade It helps and confuses. How's that for a helpful answer? ;) #litchat -4:23 PM Jan 21st, 2011 21stCscribe @dallasgeffen I'm more guerilla me. The militant wing of art for art's sake #litchat -4:24 PM Jan 21st, 2011 sticky_t @TonyNoland @LaurenBaratzL I meant with readership, but that's a good point, too. #litchat -4:24 PM Jan 21st, 2011 LaurenBaratzL @TonyNoland It was fine. They loved the concept of my book and made it their first HC. Preciously they'd only done trade. #litchat -4:24 PM Jan 21st, 2011
TonyNoland The novel I'm working on now was supposed to be a YA. ~20K into it, I realized it was an adult adventure, not YA at all. #litchat -4:24 PM Jan 21st, 2011
BarbFerrer @LaurenBaratzL I write YA & contemp adult. I love both, but want to push my craft to the next level. #litchat -4:24 PM Jan 21st, 2011

LaurenBaratzL @BarbFerrer What would that next level be? #litchat -4:25 PM Jan 21st, 2011 sticky_t @TonyNoland That might be what's happening with my YA, lol. #litchat -4:25 PM Jan 21st, 2011 BarbFerrer @LaurenBaratzL But I'm pushing my boundaries with my next projects, adding paranormal elements for the first time. Never thought it #litchat -4:25 PM Jan 21st, 2011
